St. Patrick's Day. Colonel George W. Driver, the enterprising restaurateur, whose elegant establishment adjoins the Metropolitan Hotel, on Pennsylvania avenue, unfuried to the gentle zephyrs this morning a handsome Fenian flag in honor of St. Patrick and patriots. This day, above all others, many of our Irish citizens cherish and love to celebrate the good deeds of their reveronces and departed patron saint. Driver's Irish wet goods are conceded by connoisseurs to be the finest in the city.

Kirmes in Washington.

The ladies interested in the production of the Kirmes in Washington have held already one or two preliminary meetings, and are quite enthusiastic over the prospects. The performance, as announced, is set for May II, and the expectation is to make it not less attractive and successful than the Baltimore Kirmes. It is reported that four private boxes have thus far in advance been spoken for, three at $200 each and one at $100. It is understood that a large proportion of the Baltimore ladies who took part in the Kirmes in that city have promised to assist in the Washington performance. It is not feared that there will be any lack of volunteers here to fill up the complement. The belies of the two cities will, during the penilential season, have simple opportunity to repair the ravages of the fashionable dissipations of the winter, and ought to rival in bloom and freshness the flowers of May. In its robes of flowers and foliage Washington will belovely beyond description at the time set for the Kirmes, and no better occasion can be offered for a trip from Baltimore.—[Baltimore Sun. erformance, as announced, is set for May 13,

She introduced herself as Catherine Ebilch, and assured bim of her willingness to follow him to the ends of the earth. John hersene grantifierd. to follow him to the ends of the earth. John became enraptured.
She took him home, after receiving the congratulations of the employes at the garden, and introduced him to a large, middle-aged woman whom she addressed as "mother." Accepting her invitation he stayed to supper, and was introduced to three "slaters" of his bride expectant.

They treated him royally, and after discussing the wedding and future home in the West, John left for his boarding house late in the evening, agreeing to come late in the evening, arriving notice around early in the morning.

Promptly at 9 o'clock he appeared and was greeted affectionately by "the family."

He proposed a shopping tour to his affianced, and the two started for a dry goods store.

Here Catherine purchased a new silk dress and other articles to the amount of 568, which John paid for promptly and took home. On Sunday evening he called on his future wife again. After a few remarks on various topies his future mother-in-law pro-

A Sporting Man's Superstition. "You want to know what I call a lucky omen, ch? That's just as the idea strikes me. When I was in New York last summer I used to count white horses. Say I would be standing at the corner of Fulion street and Broadway. I'd take out my watch-when I had one-and time myself and count the number of white horses that turned from Broadway into Fulton street during five minutes' time. I sometimes would go on the odd numbers and sometimes on the even. Like this: If I made up my mind on even horses, and an even number went by during the five minutes, then I would be lucky, and vice versa." "Did it always turn out, lucky for you in ease these horses passed as you desired?"

"Nine times out of ten it did. Here 'Mine times out of ten it did. Here in 'Frisco during the blood horse meeting I came out one day. While I was cating my dinner I made up my mind to count the number of passengers on to count the humber of passengers on the cars, and if they came out odd I would be lucky. It came out even. I made up my mind not to bet, but a friend came to me with an air-tight (sure thing) and I plunged on it. Com-ing under the wire another horse stuck out his tenence and won the reach ing under the wire another horse stuck out his tongue and won the race. I lost $1,400. So you see I would have been right in heeding what you call superstition. The next day I did the same thing over again. Called it odd and odd it was. Then I was sure of luck, and I had luck. That day I won $2,500,"—[San Francisco Alta.
